First aid: Wildlife Trust staff (SRWT) to carry a first aid kit and mobile phone at all times

Method Statement:

Greno Woods is accessible to the public. There are no public toilets. Families will arrive using a staggered system, having previously booked on-line. There are 3 sessions during the morning, 30 minutes apart and 3 during the afternoon. Up to 5 people may attend each session so as not to exceed the maximum of 6 people at once. They will be briefed by the SRWT leader, who will remain 2m away, collect their equipment and take it into the woods to manage their own activities. The families will be directed to different areas of the woods to avoid crowding. The meeting point is a non-public area, referred to as The Woodstack, which will be clearly signed to advise the public that this is a bookable only event being managed by the Wildlife Trust, and to adhere to the rules of social distancing and etiquette when in the woods. Families will return equipment back to a specific, sign posted, location near the meeting point, and they may debrief with the SRWT leader when they have finished. Equipment will be cleaned or quarantined before being used by another family.

Total number of booked participants on site will not exceed 30 during each of the morning or afternoon session. There may be members of the public and people who have booked on a session earlier or later that day, who we will no longer be responsible for outside of the 2 hour booking when they are in the public areas. Additional members of the public may not be involved in our sessions; if members of the public persist in interfering with the session we may seek assistance from the police.
